

Esquire Consultant Group, Ltd. (“ECG”) is excited to announce the release of their completely redesigned eTMSync™ application which automatically syncs calendar and matter information from a law firm’s eWatch® list with their Time Matters® calendar. This allows law firms to streamline their entire calendaring process and helps reduce the chances of clerical errors. Best of all, all data synced from eLaw® is automatically linked to the case in Time Matters® allowing users to quickly see every court appearances for a single case with a click of a button!

According to ECG’s President, Bill Dertinger, Esq. “With eTMSync, law firms will no longer have to physically review the information contained in their eWatch list notifications and then have somebody manually enter upcoming court appearances into the firm’s calendar. Instead, eTMSync will do the work for the firm by automatically reviewing their eWatch list and then update their Time Matters calendar with any changes.”

Some of the new features of the redesigned application include:

- Automated e-mails summarizing the amount of calendar events that were updated or added
- Detailed error notifications to alert the firm if there were any issues when syncing data for a particular case
- Ability to set a custom schedule for when the sync should run including allowing it to run multiple times throughout the day so that the firm has the most up-to-date information
- Automated monitoring of the application and notification to designated users if the sync terminates for any reason giving law firms peace of mind that the sync is always operating
- New streamlined desktop application that provides users with a multitude of functions including the ability to see detailed logs of the items that were synced as well as the ability to perform manual syncs on demand.
- Much more!
